

Cedar Waxwing

A Cedar Waxwing perched on a branch | 04/17/2019

Description

The Cedar Waxwing is a very sleek-looking, tan-colored bird with a black Zorro mask. Its tail is tipped in yellow and it has a bright red spot on its side, which is where it gets its name. It looks like a dot of red wax.

Personal stats

First observation

☐	12/21/2013
☐	Los Angeles, California

Captured media details

	Male	Female	Unknown
☐			✓
☐			✓

Experiences & anecdotes

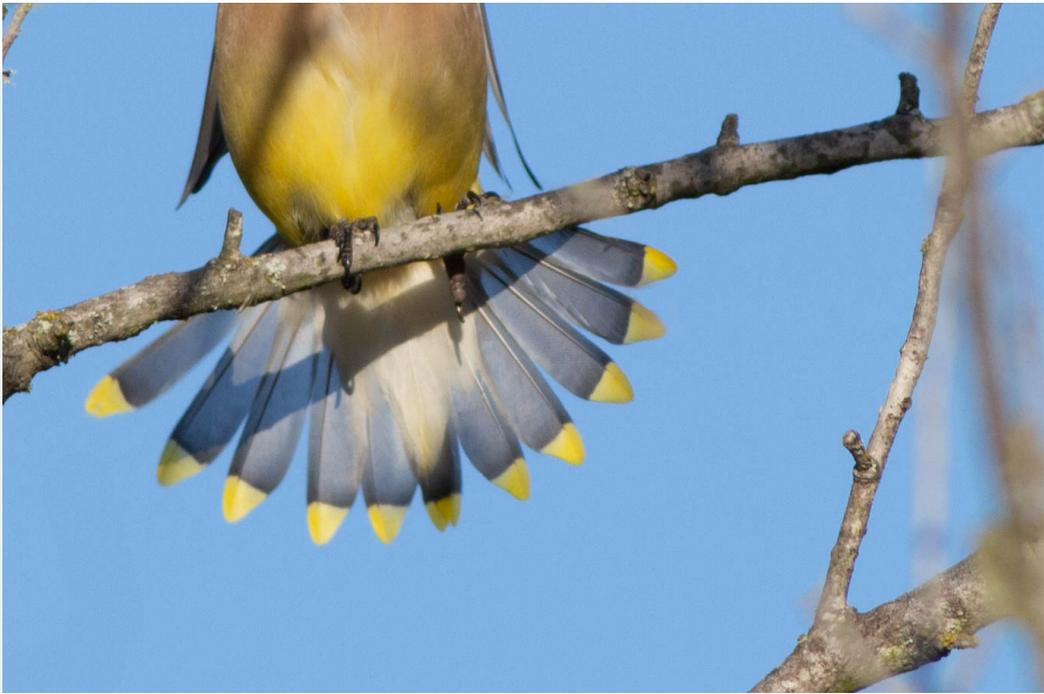

05/11/2023 - I love these birds. Cedar Waxwings are known for their love of fruiting trees. They'll grab berries off the tree and toss them in the air and swallow them. They are also known to eat fermented berries and get intoxicated to the point of passing out. Last December I went on a bird walk with Bexar Audubon and there was a group of Cedar Waxwings in a tree. I was able to stand directly below them and aim my microphone skyward and captured a fantastic recording of them.

Captured media

Photographs

This Cedar Waxwing shows off its wax-colored namesake | 04/07/2019

The tail feathers of the Cedar Waxwing look dipped in yellow | 04/07/2019

One stoic-looking bird | 04/07/2019

Audio recordings

- ML517118321 - 0:17
 - This group of Cedar Waxwings sang for me while I stood below the tree they were perched in. One of my highest-rated recordings on eBird.

<https://macaulaylibrary.org/asset/517118321/embed>

From my blogs

- Participating in the Christmas Bird Count
 - Recording birds with the MixPre-3 II
-

Revision #3

Created 11 May 2023 20:22:04 by Jeff Mann

Updated 24 May 2023 17:57:04 by Jeff Mann