

Eurasian Jay

A profile of the Eurasian Magpie at the Acropolis in Athens, Greece | 04/24/2023

Description

The Eurasian Magpie is unmistakable. Black, white, and iridescent blue-green, this flamboyant bird can be seen throughout Europe and parts of Asia.

Personal stats

First observation

☐	04/24/2023
---	------------

☐☐	Athens, Greece
----	----------------

Captured media details

	Male	Female	Unknown
☐☐			✓
☐☐			✓

Experiences & anecdotes

05/10/2023 - I arrived in Athens, not sure where or what birds I was going to see. The Eurasian Magpie was one of my favorite birds we found in the city. I got my first great look at this bird on our visit to the Parthenon at the Acropolis. As we climbed the hill, we saw many of these birds flying around.

Captured media

Photographs

The backside of a Eurasian Magpie. It looks like it has some kind of food it's contemplating eating. Is it something dead? I'm not sure. It wasn't until I reviewed this photo that I noticed it had something. | 04/24/2023

Enjoying the flowers in a field. | 04/24/2023

A nice view of the magpie's wings as it dives off the Caryatids of Erechtheion | 04/24/2023

Audio recordings

- ML565464041 - 0:02
  - A few quick calls from the Eurasian Magpie

<https://macaulaylibrary.org/asset/565464041/embed>

From my blogs

- Birdwatching in Greece: A guide to notable birds in Athens and Santorini

Revision #2

Created 11 May 2023 03:26:34 by Jeff Mann

Updated 24 May 2023 18:17:36 by Jeff Mann