

Lincoln's Sparrow

Lincoln's Sparrow on a branch| 03/13/2022

Description

The Lincoln's Sparrow is marked by a gray-brown back, streaked with darker brown and rust-colored feathers. The breast and sides are buffy with fine streaks, gradually fading into a pale whitish belly. The face features a distinctive grayish-brown crown with a faint, narrow eye ring.

Personal stats

First observation

☐☐	12/01/2013
☐☐	Los Angeles, California

Captured media details

	Male	Female	Unknown
			✓

Experiences & anecdotes

05/18/2023 - I had my first memorable experience with the Lincoln's Sparrow at Pearsall Park in San Antonio. I heard a bird singing from a bush off the trail and I looked for it as it popped up and perched on a branch. It cooperated for nice pictures but I'm still waiting for an opportunity to record it.

Captured media

Photographs

A funny forward-facing pose of the Lincoln's Sparrow. My highest-rated photo on eBird | 01/11/2023

A profile of the Lincoln's Sparrow standing on a log | 01/11/2023

The Lincoln's Sparrow clinging to a branch looking cute with its head turned | 03/13/2022

Audio recordings

- Coming soon

From my blogs

- Coming soon

Revision #2

Created 19 May 2023 00:12:02 by Jeff Mann

Updated 19 May 2023 01:03:05 by Jeff Mann